Dear Miss Cooke

I must snatch a moment before the reporters rush in to thank you for the lovely time you gave me. It was a real "pause" in the middle of this rush and I got, as I always do when I am with you, all the finest stimulus.

I hope that I wasn't too ferocious about Prohibition. I know [] - always and everywhere you want me to be honest.

Do think of me sometimes. I need my friends! Please remember me to Miss Hart [or Hunt?] and Miss Alexander.

Your sincere friend,

Hugh Walpole
